- If the following message appears it is because your screen resolution is set to 800x600. This means that Yahoo Beta will not work to best advantage, so you are given the option to move back to the original version of Yahoo. In most instances it will work OK, so just click on 'Go to Yahoo! Mail Beta', but if you would rather, you can go to the original version of Yahoo by clicking on 'Go to the original Yahoo! Mail' (help sheets are available for this version too)

There seems to be a screen resolution problem.
 Your screen resolution is set below our minimum recommendation. When it's set under 1024 x 768 pixels, the Yahoo Beta won't look as good.

You can continue with your current settings, but you won't be able to enjoy the full effect of the Beta.

To continue to the Yahoo! Mail Beta anyway... Go to Yahoo! Mail Beta Or better yet, try increasing your screen's resolution. If you're running Windows, here's how: Click the Start button, and select Settings, then Control Panel. Next, double-click Display and click the Settings tab. Use the slider to set your monitor to a 1024 x 768 pixel resolution.	To proceed to original Yahoo! Mail... Go to the original Yahoo! Mail just this one time Switch back to the original Yahoo! Mail indefinitely -- least until your system is ready.
